

Activity Overview

The American College of Cardiology's Annual Scientific Session presents late breaking clinical trials (LBCT) each year; these trials are often covered by the national media and featured in the lay press.

Target Audience

This activity is designed for an audience of physicians, physician associates, pharmacists, nurses, and nurse practitioners .

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of the educational activity, participants should be able to:

- Summarize the late breaking clinical trials presented at ACC.24 pertinent to patients.
- Discuss patient inquiries about the Lipid Trials: VICTORION-INITIATE and Bridge TIMI 73a showing how the new science is applicable to the care setting.
- Recognize how the AMI and PCI later breaking clinical trials could impact patients.
